Looking forward to 2012

Having a positive outlook towards the future is A1's number one goal.

Our business is a very unique business, as we help celebrate many occasions. Some exciting, and some to celebrate someone's accomplishments or life. At A1, we understand the importance of these events. That there are memories being made that will last a lifetime.

That is why our business is so unique. Whether it's our son's first birthday party, our grandparents 50th anniversary, or the President of the United States is in town, each and every event is equally important. We understand that, and we teach our employees the importance of that.

Supporting our community is very important to us. The future of our kids, the examples that we set, and the way we respect each other. Our valued relationships with our friends, neighbors, co-workers, vendors, business partners, and family are foremost the most important things in our business.

As we look forward to 2012, we are recommitting ourselves to taking a leadership role in our community, support it, and have a positive impact on everyone we come in contact with. We cannot control things out of our reach, but we can control what's around us, and start the pathway to a better tomorrow.

May god bless us all this year, bring health, success, and many, many good times.

We are here to help.
